Economy

Nova Scotia's economic growth is expected to accelerate this year, with RBC Economics forecasting real GDP growth of 1.3% in 2016. The continuation of construction throughout Halifax is a contributing factor to this growth as construction activities begin to ramp up due to fast approaching completion dates. Other key factors are non-energy exports, manufacturing, and increasing consumer spending (RBC Economics). Looking to 2017, GDP growth is expected to ease and fall to 1.1%, in large part due to slowing construction activity as both major residential and non-residential projects are completed.

Market Overview

Nova Scotia's overall office market vacancy rate concluded Q3 with an increase of 0.5 percentage points from last quarter, reaching 14.5%. However, there were some vacancy fluctuations within the submarkets. Over the last quarter Halifax's Central Business District (CBD) vacancy rate remained unchanged at 14.6%, along with the Dartmouth market vacancy rate, which remained stable from Q2 to Q3 from 14.4% to 14.3%. As for Halifax's Suburban market, the vacancy rate increased to 14.6% from 11.3% last quarter as TD Meloche Monnex moved out of their 21,500-sf office space at 7051 Bayers Road. The largest leasing transaction this quarter was Sovereign General Insurance who leased an entire floor at the TD Centre.

Outlook

With major projects in Halifax close to being completed, including the Nova Centre and the re-decking of the Macdonald Bridge, non-residential investment spending is beginning to decline (RBC Economics). According to TD Economics, Nova Scotia's unemployment rate is expected to stabilize over the next year.

In early May, the Armour Group Ltd. and the Waterfront Development announced the Queen's Marquee district development. This $200 million project will include a hotel, a variety of office spaces, and a residential building; combined with open public space with a courtyard and roughly 23,000 square meters of retail plaza space. The Dartmouth submarket is expected to experience a significant increase in vacancy due to the Wright & Business Campus that is slated for completion in Q4 2016. The Maple, a 300 unit purpose-built apartment building located in the Halifax submarket, is already over a quarter pre-leased with seven months remaining until it officially opens.
