Economy

According to the latest report from the Atlantic Province Economic Council, Newfoundland and Labrador will have the fastest economic growth in the Atlantic provinces in 2019 as it rebounds from 2018's decline, which resulted from decreased major project investment. Increased oil production from Hebron and increased mining output will help to drive a gain of an estimated 2.9% in output.

(Source: APEC)

In the provincial economic update released in November 2018, the projected provincial deficit was revised to $547 million, an improvement of $136 million from the budgeted estimate. This improvement was in large part the result of higher revenues than forecast. The price of oil has been higher than the estimated figure used to formulate the original budget, and the U.S. exchange rate was also more favourable.

Market Overview

The City of St. John's released its 2019 budget in December 2018, which included $4.1 million in new commercial tax revenues – up 5.8% from 2017. The commercial mil rate is set at 26.1 – up 1.4 mils from last year. Additionally, commercial assessments have also risen. The office buildings that are surveyed for the statistics have initial assessments increasing between 5% to almost 20%. Newer Class A office towers in the downtown were significantly impacted, with increases ranging from 7% to almost 30% , while new Suburban buildings have increases averaging 6%.

In other market news, the Co-operators building at 19 Crosbie Place sold to Atlantic Property Management, a Crosbie company.

Outlook

Appeals of these increased assessments is anticipated . With this higher tax component and expected increased electrical costs, any downward pressure in rental rates will be offset by increased operating costs – thereby negatively affecting both landlords and tenants.
